

Welcome...

NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION
4201 WILSON BOULEVARD
ARLINGTON, VIRGINIA 22230

Welcome to the United States Antarctic Program. As a participant in this national effort to learn more about Antarctica and the Southern Ocean, you are one of some 3,000 people who deploy each year to ships, stations, and field camps to perform or support research projects.

In addition to helping you in your personal and professional objectives, this manual describes your legal responsibilities resulting from participation in the Antarctic Program. These responsibilities include actions required of you to assure the Nation's compliance with the Antarctic Treaty, in particular provisions for protecting the environment, and to help you comply with U.S. public law and program procedures. There may be substantial civil or criminal penalties for noncompliance.

Safety, environment, and health are of paramount importance. Continued vigilance and action in these areas are essential to maintain the strict standards of work in Antarctica.

This U.S. Antarctic Program Participant Guide is revised every 2 years. If you know of ways to improve it, please send suggestions to us using the evaluation card at the back of this book.

Scott Borg, Head
Antarctic Sciences Section
Office of Polar Programs

Erick Chiang, Head
Polar Research Support Section
Office of Polar Programs

This Participant Guide is your initial source of information for United States Antarctic Program participants. It covers McMurdo, Palmer and South Pole Stations, field camps and the research vessels. The information will help you prepare for your antarctic experience and point you toward other sources. Be sure to work closely with your point-of-contact for more detailed information and the particular requirements related to your objectives.

Icons are used throughout this handbook. The Information icon directs you toward other publications and sources of related information. The Grantee (scientist) and RPSC Employee icons indicate information that applies especially to that type of participant.

All U.S. Antarctic Program participants—including grantees, RPSC employees, visitors, and military—should use this handbook for general reference only. Authoritative guidance is provided in grant instruments, employment contracts, or other legally binding documents.